Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vitelli. Vitelli teaches a cooling apparatus for hot rolled wire rod including a conveyor (48, 50) for conveying a path of cooling rings (16) in a conveying plane (40) with guides (56, 58, 62, 60) for directing separate cooling air from below onto said overlapping rings (16) over a predetermined length of the conveying path which is a module of the entire conveying path, where the guides supply two outer (56 and 60) and an inner (58, 62) cooling region, where each region is supplied by independently controllable blowers (30, 34) where one blower (34) supplies the outer cooling regions and a separate independently controllable blower (30) supplies the inner cooling region, where each of the blowers has a separate electric motor (32, 36) with or without any desired type of speed control device (70, 71) and swingable or slidable (adjustable) louvers (72) or baffles for the blowers, thereby showing all aspects of the above claims.
